2 PPCLI Battle Group leaves for Bosnia

By: Cheryl Gudz, Wing Public Affairs

On 7 September, the first group of steadfast soldiers from the 2 PPCLI Battle Group left for the Balkans. They have been preparing for many months to fulfill their role as Roto 7 peacekeepers and are deemed fully capable of satisfying NATO's commitment to peace. They will arrive in Zagreb, Croatia and will then be stationed at various locations in the Balkans, primarily in the Multi National Division South West in Bosnia-Herzegovina.

At the Kapyong Barracks, tearful good-byes abounded as troops and their loved ones bid their farewells. Soon it was time to

they were sent off by Wing Commander Colonel Doug McLennan, Wing Chief Warrant Officer CWO Frank Emond, and the Honorable Mayor Glen Murray. The latter gave a moving speech to the troops and then made an effort to speak with them individually before they boarded the flight.

Most of the local media were on hand to cover the departure and several members of the Battle Group gave interviews on camera.

Members of the battalion will be overseas for 7 months, but could be home sooner than that on their leave time, though only for a two-week period. Civilian PSP personnel from 17 Wing, (featured in an article in the August 23rd issue of the Voxair) will be primarily responsible for planning and ensuring leave and Rest & Relaxation time for the troops. The 2 PPCLI crew are expected to return home in April.

LETTER FROM THE EDITOR

By: Capt Kerry Monk, Managing Editor

Well, first off I would like to offer a sincere apology for the errors in our last edition. I could go into great detail and offer up many excuses, but suffice it to say we messed up. Our goal is to bring you a well-written paper and we will strive to always ensure the highest quality. I guess that in all the excitement about getting ready for the new format, we didn't pay as much attention to such basics as proof-reading. So how do you like the new look? As Ben alluded to in his last editorial, big changes have happened. I know that some of you may be wondering why we are 'fixing it if it ain't broke'. Well, we thought it was time to catch up to the rest of the country. Most of the base/wing newspapers are printed on standard-size, community newspaper newsprint. All of those also offer full colour pages to their advertisers and readers. For the reader, it makes for a more enjoyable product; for the advertiser it provides greater visibility; and for the Voxair it leaves more money in our coffers, as the standard format is far cheaper to produce than the special size paper we had been using. The Voxair is a non-profit entity but we have bills to pay all the same and if we can save money and present a better paper then it only makes sense to do so. Please let us know what you think.

MEMBER FROM 1 CAD HQ RECEIVES INAUGURAL MEDAL

By: 2Lt Marc Brothers

Captain Mike Lillico, personnel administration officer from 1 Canadian Air Division Headquarters, was among ten Air Force personnel selected for the Canadian Peacekeeping Service Medal that was awarded for the first time Sept 6 in Ottawa.

A native of Moose Jaw, Capt Lillico, 49, joined the CF as a radar operator in 1970. His first peacekeeping mission was with the Canadian Airborne Regiment in Cyprus at the time of the Turkish invasion in 1974. "Under combat conditions we soon found out what heroes were made of," said Capt Lillico.

After a tour in Germany, Capt Lillico remustered to physical education and recreation instructor and served in the Golan Heights from 1981-82. In 1993, he received his commission and has since worked as a Pers Admin O at 402 Squadron and, most recently, at 1 CAD HQ.

Last year Capt Lillico completed his third peacekeeping duty, this time as a member of the Canadian Task Force based in Aviano, Italy. This he views as one of his most enjoyable experiences as it gave Air Force personnel an opportunity to "do the job we are trained to do."

With no immediate plans for retirement, Capt Lillico is hoping for a "chance to do one more tour, somewhere else."

Capt Lillico's wife Barbara, a civilian employee with the Department of National Defence, accompanied her husband to the ceremony that was presided over by Her Excellency the Right Honourable Adrienne Clarkson, Governor General of Canada.

Although many Canadians proudly wear medals awarded for service with the United Nations and NATO, the CPSPM is formal recognition by Canada of those who have served in the interest of world peace. It recognizes Canadians who have deployed on a peacekeeping or observer mission, or in direct support of any such mission for a minimum of 30 days.

Almost 125,000 Canadians have served on or supported peacekeeping missions over the past 53 years, a record unsurpassed by any nation. The ten air force recipients were among an 80-strong contingent from across Canada consisting of serving and retired members of the Canadian Forces, members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and other police forces, and civilians.

1 CAD Commander's Commendation

MWO Dave Alex is presented with a Commander's Commendation by LGen Lloyd Campbell in recognition of outstanding work associated with the rewrite of the policy on qualification and authorization of personnel for aircraft maintenance.

NEIGHBOUR DISPUTES

HOW DO YOU RESOLVE YOUR DIFFERENCES?

By: Cpl Rod Jackson, 17 Wing SAMP

Over the past several years, the Military Police have received a growing number of calls concerning disputes between PMQ neighbours. These disputes range from such topics as parking spaces, control of children, noise levels and untidy backyards. Sometimes these differences are dealt with by neighbours sitting and discussing their problems, however, often the Military Police are called to negotiate an issue that is not a Police matter. This leads to bad neighbour relations and a draining of MP resources.

Sadly, these disputes sometimes boil over to the point where language exchanged between the two parties is vulgar and heated. Believe it or not, the Military Police then receive calls where one resident complains that the other is "yelling at me and calling me bad names." The caller then requests that we lay charges against the offending person. Most are not aware, however, that there is no law against name-calling. If these problems cannot be solved between the two parties amicably, it then becomes a Wing Housing and Unit issue. It is unfortunate that people needlessly involve their work in domestic matters, of course this says nothing of the embarrassment factor to you and your neighbours.

What is most disconcerting for the Military Police is that we often discover that the neighbours have not even made an attempt at negotiation. One such example might involve someone telephoning the Police to complain about loud music from another PMQ. The first question the Police ask is "did you ask them to turn it down?" The answer is usually "No." Another might involve a complaint of the neighbour's children playing in a shared parking lot. The caller is concerned the children are too close to the parked cars and damage may occur. Once again the Police will ask "did you ask them to move?" or "did you talk to the parents about it?" Again the answer is "No." Many people feel it is an unfriendly gesture to approach others about such differences. However, you can be assured your neighbours will resent you for not approaching them first before calling the Police on them. Let's be honest, you would not enjoy it if your neighbour called the Police on you, when they could have spoken to you first. It is these types of examples where, if people took a second to talk to one another, they could resolve their differences without involving outside parties.

No matter where we are posted in Canada we are a military family and there is no escaping this reality. As difficult as this may be at times, it is up to us as responsible members and dependants of the CF to resolve our differences maturely. Remember troops, if you can resolve an issue with an armed soldier while on UN deployment and if your spouse can deal with you being away for 6 months, it is clear that you both have the resources to discuss problems with your neighbours and resolve an ongoing issue. Good PMQ relationships are an investment well worth making as it pays dividends to not only you and your neighbours but the military community as well!

Operation Reptile: Sierra Leone

By: Cpl Dave Carlson & Cpl Jeff Brown

Situation: Antigovernment forces had seized control of the countryside of Sierra Leone. They went about terrorizing the civilian population and had taken control of the diamond trade. United Nations Mission: To quickly deploy UN forces into the area, ease tensions and put control of the country back into the hands of the elected government. It is the "mission" where 1 Air Movements Squadron comes into action. Canada had committed 37 personnel to aid the UN. Our objective: To get to Africa, set up an Air Movements Detachment, capable of supporting all inbound UN flights to Sierra Leone. This was all done in record time, thanks to the combined efforts of everyone involved.

With extremely short notice, everyone was rapidly going about preparations for the deployment. Several thousand pounds of freight were built up and loaded onto Illusions (IL 76's). The loading techniques of the Russian aircrews were interesting. When pallet space on the floor of the aircraft was no longer available, the Russians practiced a "grab and stuff" technique. In this instance, the careful methods employed by Canadians, no longer mattered.

Once in theatre, a recce was done and a suitable site for our new home was selected. The entire detachment worked hard as a team and set up the camp. WO Dave Stubbert, the camp SWO, has an extremely keen eye for detail and promptly went about "fine tuning" the small details that were overlooked. Once the structures were in place, concertina wire was laid and bunkers were built for our protection. With the help of the ex-combat arms types, this was done with extreme proficiency. Cpl Rick Burke, with his pioneer background, went so far as to ensure the pickets were facing the correct way.

Over the next couple of days, when aircraft were not on the ground, we commenced with fine tuning the camp. Showers were built, a mess tent established, phone lines put in place, and absolutely everything that didn't move was wired with electricity. Sgt Andy Green, brought 35 miles of wire, and was determined to use every foot at his disposal. It's unconfirmed, but rumor has it he even illuminated the urinal tubes. The SWO formed a "water piquet". This involved moving the water to random locations at random times. It was a system for keeping the troops on their toes.

The CQ ensured that we had everything we needed, with his excellent foresight, MCpl Gary Ezekiel, had packed everything required and then some. You could ask him for almost anything and he could produce it in mere seconds.

As the mission progressed, we slipped into a daily routine. The MAMS teams worked 12-hour shifts, offloading as many as eight Antonov (AN-124) and Illusion (IL-76) aircraft in one day. 8 ACCS kept the communications up and running. The medic was busy treating weird African ailments and pre-med ensured that everything was done in a sanitary manner. The evenings entailed an intelligence briefing from WO Figge. He kept everyone informed with up-to-date facts. The evening O-group was finished with a Q and A session. The CO, Maj Randy Boucher, would go around the tent, and section heads would pass on pertinent information. The "Canadian Contingent Provost Martial", as named by the CO, would brief all personnel on the Rules of Engagement and airfield security. Sgt Sean Donovan had also mastered the many ways to wear his desert boots, as he had traded his only pair of running shoes for some local artifacts to one of the local merchants. The O-group ended with a movie choice for the evening.

The days were long and hot and the Antonov 124's showed up all too frequently. The MAMS teams worked long hard days. The freight was never neatly placed on aircraft pallets. If it was not rolling stock, it was bulk loaded. Everyone in the detachment pitched in to help unload thousands of pounds of bulk freight, including ammunition, pumpkins, medical supplies, and even live chickens.

Everyone in the camp kept themselves busy one way or another. A chin-up bar was built and a mini weight area was established. Tanning was at the top of a lot of people's lists. The local entrepreneurs would frequent the fence line and try and sell their art items. A favorite pastime was trying to talk the locals down to a more reasonable price. Cpl Mark Durette became an expert haggler, using exaggerated gestures, complaining about mouths to feed back home and threatening to walk away if the price was not at least cut in half. Oosman, a local salesman, would come around like clockwork every night and try and sell local art items. He would go out and shop for items that members of the detachment wanted as souvenirs. Since everyone was confined to the camp, except to work, it was always a morale boost to see what Oosman would bring by. A highlight of the day indeed.

Op Reptile was a very successful mission. A small contingent of Canadians managed to handle a massive amount of freight (5,726,046 lbs.-combined total) in an incredibly short period of time. All the while, self-sustained providing our own security and logistical support. An excellent job done by everyone during this deployed operation!

CFSSAT News

By: MCpl T.D. Freeland, NCO HYPO

Sgt Dale Coulson receives his new rank.

Capt Andy Appleton receives his new rank.

Congratulations

Sgt Mark Rootes receives his third seal to the Canadian Forces Aerobic Fitness Program.

Sgt André Daigle receives his 1st clasp to his CD.

Promotions & Presentations presented by Maj Ken Glass, CFSSAT Comd

There have been a number of changes here at CFSSAT over the past year. We have had 4 members posted to DCIEM in Toronto. As well we have had a number of promotions, presentations and even a few weddings. Congratulations are heartily extended to Capt Appleton, Lt Munn, WO Dunphy, and Sgt Coulson on their promotions, also to Capt Shaw (nee Hayes), Cpl Townson, MCpl Matheson, and Sgt Curtis on their weddings this spring/summer. Congratulations are also extended to Sgt Rootes on his achieving the third seal for his Fitness Award and to Sgt Daigle for his first clasp on his CD. Add this to a busy training schedule and it's not hard to see that our year has been a full one.

CFSSAT and The Rumor Mill

The Chambers - As you may have heard CFSSAT has suspended the use of both its high altitude (hypobaric) and diving (hyperbaric) chambers. As rumours have run rampant, I'm sure you've heard one variation or another. There was NO FIRE, so let's put that rumour to rest right away. The truth of the matter is that a chemical lubricant used in some of our systems' valves crept into the oxygen lines of the hypobaric chamber. This problem was discovered while preparing to send an oxygen regulator out for servicing during a routine maintenance period. For safety reasons the oxygen lines were immediately quarantined and the hypobaric chamber was shut down. The chemical lubricant found in the hypobaric chamber system and the valves is also used in the hyperbaric chamber; it was also shut down.

Contracts to have the necessary work done to both chambers have been written and we are waiting for the work to be completed and gas samples to be tested before beginning chamber training again. Meanwhile we continue to conduct courses that do not involve chamber flights. If you have any concerns about your aeromedical training that may be about to expire please call our academic cell at loc. 6857.

SERE Training and The Press- Some of you may have read some recent articles in the Sun and the National Post with the headlines "Pilots may get torture training". If you took the time to read these articles in their entirety you will have a better appreciation of the scope of this training. Basically a portion of the Survival, Evasion, Resistance and Escape (SERE) training includes "Capture" training. Students would be subjected to mild psychological and physical stressors to prepare them for situations they may face if shot down behind enemy lines. Prospective students need not be alarmed. Other allied forces have used this training, which has proven to be effective in preparing aircrew for hostile situations. Furthermore, authority to conduct this training has been granted by the DCDS.

The Staff here at CFSSAT are eager to return to normal operations as soon as possible, realizing of course that our extended down time will mean a hectic year's end for us to catch up with the backlog. We are also looking forward to the future, with upgrade proposals to research as well as, possibly, new flight profiles and expanded training capabilities to implement.

WELL, IT'S JUST ABOUT THAT TIME OF YEAR AGAIN; FLU SEASON.

By: Capt Wojtowicz, 17 Wing Med Sq

What is the flu?

- * It is a viral illness therefore; antibiotics are not required unless a bacterial infection develops.
- * It is spread by coughing, sneezing and contact with nasal fluids.
- * Onset is usually sudden with a duration of two to seven days.
- * Symptoms may include: fever, headache, cough, muscle aches, runny nose, sore throat and exhaustion.
- * Period of time from exposure to onset of symptoms is one to three days. You may also carry the virus but have no symptoms.

Prevention

- * Healthy diet, exercise and adequate rest.
- * Frequent handwashing, especially after coughing.
- * If possible, avoiding people who already have the flu.
- * Flu vaccine

Vaccine

- * The flu virus changes each year therefore, the flu vaccine changes each year as well.
- * The vaccine is inactivated (not live) which means you cannot get the flu from the vaccine.
- * Each year, the vaccine contains three different strains or types of the flu.
- * Protection from the flu begins approximately two weeks after vaccination.

Who should receive the vaccine?

- * Anyone with chronic heart or lung disease.
- * Anyone with cancer, anemia, or weakened immune system due to disease or medication.
- * Anyone with chronic conditions such as diabetes, kidney disease, inflammatory bowel disease, celiac disease, rheumatoid arthritis, lupus, alcoholism and multiple sclerosis.
- * Anyone over 65 years of age.
- * Health care workers.
- * People living in households with individuals in any of the above categories.

We will notify all personnel when the flu vaccine becomes available. If you would like further information about the flu or the vaccine, please call the Health Promotion Office at Local 5116.

SICOFAA-CORHEE

1 CAD and 17 Wing host the Americas again

By: Cheryl Guduz, 17 Wing Public Affairs

Brigadier General Findley, Chairperson of XXVII SICOFAA-CORHEE (back, second from left), listens attentively to the one of the delegate's presentations. Apart from the daily sessions and discussions at Mynarski Hall, the delegates toured 17 Wing and its schools like CFSAT, CFSAS, and CFANS, and visited some notable sites in downtown Winnipeg like the Manitoba Museum (of Man and Nature). The visitors were lodged at 17 Wing's "Hotel" and ate together at the Officer's Mess.

Last summer, before the words "is that your final answer?" or "the tribe has spoken" were ever uttered, the catchphrase around town was "Where the Americas come to play," (a phrase that became popular during Winnipeg's hosting of the 1999 Pan Am Games). Well, it's been one year since athletes from all over the Americas participated in the Games, and just when you thought the Americas had gone home to stay, they were back in Winnipeg from 24-28 July. This time around though, they weren't planning on breaking any world records - just on discussing issues involving Air Force human resources, education, and training within the 18 countries of the System of Cooperation among the American Air Forces (SICOFAA). This was the second consecutive year that the Canadian Air Force has hosted the CORHEE committee, although last year it was held in Borden due to 17 Wing's role in the hosting of a Pan Am Games Athlete's Village. Canada officially joined the SICOFAA system in 1992, moving from its previous observer status to participating member.

"United and Allied"

The Committee for Human Resources, Education, and training (CORHEE), is one of nine sub-committees in SICOFAA that meets once a year. The committees discuss issues from Accident Prevention to Aerospace Science and Technology, and are all very valuable in promoting the exchange of ideas between the member countries. They improve the relations between the member countries, and provide a venue for the constructive exchange of ideas and methods through which air forces attract, train, and retain their personnel. The weeklong conference also allows delegates to meet formally and informally in a variety of settings. The committee's main purpose though, is to generate conclusions out of which fall strong recommendations which are in-turn, presented to the commanders during their annual meeting. Last year at XXVI CORHEE, one of the proposed recommendations was, "for air forces that have incorporated women as pilots in their flying training programs, to continue exchanging information aimed at determining the probable obstacles that would impede the normal development of their functions." That's why two of the hottest topics for discussion this year were the integration of women in pilot training, and sexual harassment. Other topics on the agenda were Opportunities and Systems to Facilitate Cooperative Training, The Professional Career of non-commissioned members (NCM's) and The Relation between Military Schools and Post-Secondary Institutions (accreditation of courses). Delegates addressed at least one of these issues in their oral presentation, explaining what their respective air force intends to accomplish while relating the topic to their country's present state. In addition to their presentations, invited speakers gave addresses based on their personal experiences with the topics under discussion. After each presentation, delegates were able to ask questions and discuss the issues. Interpreters were on hand during the sessions and headsets were readily available for interpretations between English and Spanish, (the latter being SICOFAA's working language).

Women's Equality

Delegates from Uruguay and Peru spoke of following the necessary steps to reach women's equality in their respective air forces. The delegate from Uruguay Colonel Gustavo Aresse said that his Air Force is offering training seminars to all its personnel on how to eliminate the link between violence and sexuality, how to dispel myths and stereotypes surrounding women, and how to assess the impact of gender socialization. In addition to the seminars, a 24-hour "crisis" hotline has recently been established, and is run by non-military psychologists and social workers to offer a safe and secure outlet for callers. In the Peruvian Air Force there is a program in place to assist with the recent entry of women into officer and non-commissioned corps. This program is in response to a law approved in 1996 by President Fujimori allowing women access to officer and NCM schools, a law that strives to eliminate distinctions between the sexes. Currently, there are 486 women in the Peruvian Air Force, and in 2004 they expect to graduate their first female pilot.

1Lt Julie Thode, of Vance Air Force Base in Oklahoma, realized after hearing some of the presentations that some countries are "so far behind." "The T-37 Tweet Instructor Pilot has been flying for three years, and was incredulous to hear that there are countries in the Americas hoping to graduate their first female pilot five years from now. Women in the USAF have been flying since WWII, but have only been recognized and admitted to the pilot training program as of 1976. For Lt Thode, participating in CORHEE has opened her eyes to the difference in attitudes towards women in foreign militaries. I'm used to operating on the rank structure, and not chivalry. It's funny, we would be walking towards a door and five colonels would just stop and let me go first. I'm not used to that." Nevertheless, the Latin-American delegates were very interested in hearing about her experiences as a pilot. She said that they were very polite, asked her many questions, and were interested in learning more. She also believes that organizations like SICOFAA can really open up doors for countries just starting to integrate women, and can benefit from the example set by the U.S. and Canada who have had more experience integrating women into their air forces.

Canada's Outlook

Canada was well represented at CORHEE. In addition to the committee Chairperson Brigadier General Findley, and official Canadian delegate Major Juan Gallego, other speakers included the committee secretary, Major Weihmayr who delivered the General Administration reading and the previous day's minutes each morning; Lt(N) Boyes who spoke on the subject of female pilots and sexual harassment; and Dr St-John of RMC who spoke about Continuing Education in Canada. The Canadian contingent also included all those who were involved in the organization of the conference, namely Capt Guillermo Gomez, CAS/SICOFAA

Liaison Officer, and Capt Elizabeth Cameron, 1CAD/17 Wing OPI, and their administrative assistants.

In a System where over 90% of the member countries are Latin American, one might wonder why countries like Canada and the United States would take part. Maj Juan Gallego, the Canadian delegate and CATP's International Training Program Regional Manager for the Americas explained that there are many benefits to being a member of SICOFAA for Canada. Some examples of these benefits are improved economic relations within the Americas, (especially within the Aerospace sector in terms of aircraft, maintenance, and training); Canadian advice, technical assistance, and general support; we bring an alternative non-Latin viewpoint and approach as does our US allies, all the while offering an alternative to the traditional reliance of many nations on the US; we have established good contacts and relationships; we benefit from greater international flavor; and we can develop our own personnel by hosting a SICOFAA event while being able to find military members with Spanish speaking backgrounds for the future. This year, Capt Gomez recruited Spanish speaking military personnel from Greenwood to Moose Jaw, as it is always difficult to find available personnel especially in the region where the event is being hosted. Nevertheless, Capt Gomez only had wonderful things to say about the diligent staff, but would like to give more people the opportunity to get involved in the exciting world of SICOFAA.

Just think. Not only does the SICOFAA system broaden your horizons and allow for interaction with people from all over the Americas, the best part is the SICOFAA team doesn't require any athletic ability whatsoever.

If you are a Spanish speaking CF member (Regular or Reserve) and you are interested in being a part of the SICOFAA team, Capt Gomez would be glad to hear from you. You can reach him at (613) 995-7227, CSN 845-7227.

PROTECT YOUR PROPERTY

By: Cpl Colleen Wright, Wing Samp

In recent months, the 17 Wing Security and Military Police Squadron (SAMP Sqn), has observed an increase in the number of Break and Enters into PMQ garages and vehicles. The theft of bicycles, in the PMQ area, is also on the rise. The SAMP Sqn maintains vigilant patrols of the PMQ area for your safety and protection; however, responsibility also rests with you, the occupants, to take reasonable safeguards to protect your possessions.

What are reasonable safeguards? In order to protect your vehicle, ensure that when it is left unattended the windows are rolled up and the doors are locked. All attractive items should be hidden from plain sight. Garage door openers, keys to your home or garage and any mail with your home address, should not be left in the vehicle. All attractive items, which you normally leave outdoors, e.g. bikes, canoes, etc, should be secured. All windows on your garage and PMQ should be secured when you are not at home. When going on vacation, leave a house key with a friend who will check your house periodically. Ensure that you have a friend pick up daily mail and newspapers. Failure to take reasonable safeguards may also result in a refused claim from insurance companies, if you try to recover your losses.

As an added precaution, we recommend those attractive and valuable items, e.g. CDs, cassettes, money, military kit and other such similar items not be stored in your vehicle. For vehicles that have an automatic trunk release button, which can be operated without starting the vehicle, it is not a wise idea to store your valuables in the trunk. Although expensive, secure storage containers that can be securely mounted inside the trunk, are available as an after market product at auto part dealerships and stores. The use of a steering wheel locking bar is also an effective deterrent to vehicle theft and the cost is reasonable. The addition of a car alarm is an expensive but extremely effective method of theft prevention.

If you keep valuable or attractive items stored in your garage, it would be advisable to install a proper deadbolt on the pedestrian door. This will go a long way to prevent a Break and Enter. These locks sell from approximately $12 to $30 at a hardware store. If you're debating this particular cost, consider the cost of replacing a stolen child's bicycle versus the cost of a deadbolt lock. Covering your garage windows with a curtain or similar item will also prevent people from peeking into your windows and seeing what is stored inside your garage.

Installation of motion sensing lighting on your front and back porches or garage is also a good investment. These lights sell from approximately $30 to $110. Anyone approaching your vehicle, garage or home will cause these lights to illuminate the area. These lights can also be sensitive enough, that when installed on the rear of a PMQ, they will be activated by a vehicle driving by in the back alley.

As a final deterrent we suggest that you report all suspicious activity, no matter how insignificant you think it is, to the SAMP Sqn, at 833-2633. This SAMP Sqn also provides a Vacant PMQ Check service. If you are leaving the area on vacation, etc contact the SAMP Sqn at 833-2633 to have your PMQ added to this list. Military Police Patrol personnel will conduct random checks of all Vacant PMQs during the occupants' absence. If we can be of some assistance in making recommendations to protect your possessions please do not hesitate to call us. We want to protect you and our community, but we need your assistance.

WORKPLACE CHARITABLE CAMPAIGN KICKS OFF AT 17 WING

By: Cheryl Gudz, Wing Public Affairs

It's just about that time again to put on your fundraising hat.

The 17 Wing goal set for the 2000 Government of Canada Workplace Charitable Campaign is $60,000.

Unfortunately, you've already missed your chance to be a canvasser (shame, shame) but you can redeem yourself by participating in GCWCC fundraising activities and pledging to the charity of your choice.

September 22nd marks the start of the annual fundraising drive at 17 Wing and 1 CAD. The six-week campaign begins with a Sports Tabloid to be held Friday morning which will then be followed by a BBQ at the back of the Jr. Ranks Mess. Units are encouraged to participate in activities like volleyball, golf, softball, and the Tabloid itself.

The truck-pull will follow the sporting activities at 1100, and a shuttle bus will transport people to and from the BBQ to facilitate and maximize participation. It will leave Building 61 starting at 0730 and will run every half hour after that until 1300.

Captain Alan McMillan, the GCWCC coordinator for 17 Wing wants people to know that they have complete control over where their pledge money goes. Although the fundraiser falls under the United Way auspices, donating to any charity across Canada is possible. It's important for people to remember that although you may want to concentrate your donation on one particular organization, 100% of your monetary gift to United Way will go directly back to Manitobans. The United Way is able to provide this service because of a grant from the Province that will cover most of the administration costs of the organization in Winnipeg.

There are some interesting fundraising ideas intended for this year's campaign including a Book Fair, raffles and prize packs, and in the works, a Wing-wide breakfast and e-mail bingo ("tentatively called e-mail WINGO") not to mention the popular United Way Casual Days to be held five subsequent Fridays beginning 29 Sept. Themes for the Casual Days are tentatively Jeans, Hawaiian/ugly shirt, baseball caps/hats, retro/oldies polyester, and beach-wear day.

If you are interested in making a pledge, payroll deduction will reward you with free tickets for the prize drawings. The earlier you make your pledge, the more tickets you will receive. Also to be made available shortly is United Way merchandise. T-shirts, sweat-shirts, fleece mittens, scarves, ear-bands, neckwarmers, canvasser bags, pens-on-a-rope, mouse pads, art cards, fridge magnets and Entertainment 2001 Coupon Books, will be sold at affordable prices with 15% of the proceeds going to the campaign.

Contributing to the campaign will make a difference either by way of financial support, or by creating awareness. Remember, that every bit counts and that your efforts will be truly appreciated by your community. So come on out, have some fun in the process, and help the campaign reach its goal!

17 WING WINNIPEG'S INTERSECTION WOMEN'S AND MEN'S BASE HOCKEY Players & Goalies Wanted

There is a shortage of players for certain teams in our intersection women's and men's base hockey teams. If you are interested in participating and you have no affiliation with any unit which has a team, or want to play for the men's base team please contact the sports coordinator. We have a list of teams that are looking for players. The 17 Wing Intersection Hockey League games are all played Monday to Friday at the Highlander Arena between 1045 and 1300 hrs. Each team plays approximately two games per week.

If you have any questions or concerns please contact the sports coordinator, Frank Charest at Bldg. 21 or at local 5511 by 21 Sep 00.

Talk to grown-ups and make an escape plan

Getting out of your own home sounds easy, but everything looks very different when it's full of smoke. So practice your plan.

Home fire drills can be fun!

Start the drill by pushing the button on a smoke alarm and yelling: "Fire!" "Everybody out!"

Follow your escape plan and leave the building quickly.

Pretend some ways out are blocked by flame or smoke. That's when you might use your second way out of a room.

Go directly to your meeting place.

- 1 Draw a map of your home. Show every room, door, and window and the location of all smoke alarms.
- 2 Mark an easy way out of each room. Then find a second way out.

And That Was The Week That Was!

Location: CFB Borden

For six days in July, more than 30 new PSP employees underwent intensive training for deployed operations.

These highly qualified civilians will be heading to Bosnia in August, September and October 2000 to provide the Canadian Forces Personnel Support Agency's personnel support programs and welfare services for deployed troops. All have been rigorously screened and trained to provide the best possible support to troops for services like CANEX operations, Home Leave Travel Assistance, accounting services, sports and programs expanded in 2000 to include Bosnia-Herzegovina, in addition to its previous operations at bases, wings and units in Canada, the US, and Europe. The broader delivery of these programs and services is a natural extension to ensure serving CF members receive the same standard of support programs in theatre as they have back at home.

"There's no question it's been a challenging time to put this all together, to find the right employees and to provide training," stated Yves Rioux, CFPSA Deployed Operations Manager. "We've got a tremendous group of very motivated individuals ready to go in the next few weeks. They're very keen to get going with their jobs at the six camps in Bosnia-Herzegovina." The deployed positions vary in length from six months to a year, and are timed to rotate alternately from those of the troops, to provide seamless fitness programs and other amenities. Most have performed CANEX and PSP duties as CFPSA employees at various bases around the country before answering the call to head in-theatre, an advantage that will enable them to hit the ground running. Those selected come from locations like Borden, Edmonton, Esquimaux, Gagetown, Greenwood, Halifax, Ottawa, Petawawa, Shilo, St-Jean, Trenton, Valcartier and Winnipeg.

The CFPSA's mandate to develop and administer CANEX and personnel support program delivery. The CFPSA will be embarking on another call for applications from interested individuals in the fall of 2000, in order to provide a continual source of qualified employees for the programs.
