The Voxair welcomes new student journalist

Hello, I'd like to introduce myself as the Voxair's new student journalist. My name is Jen Sharpe, and I can report on all things that affect the base and the 17 Wing community. I am excited to work in such a challenging and rewarding environment and look forward to meeting many of you when I'm "on the beat."

I will be finishing my Creative Communications Degree at the University of Winnipeg this September as I have already completed the Red River College diploma portion of the program. Although I am an Advertising major, I am very interested in Journalism and have training in website design, radio, and television production. I am interested in photography and graphic design, two skills I will be sure to use while at the Voxair.

I am currently living in Stonewall, but have plans to move to Winnipeg soon. As the daughter of an Air Canada pilot, I have grown up around aircraft and enjoy flying immensely. Although I know this is a long shot, I would love to write a first hand story about flying in a fighter jet. Nothing beats great press, you know!

Anyway, although I will not be here every day, please do not hesitate to contact me about any event or interesting story you think I might cover. I will be in the office on Mondays and Wednesdays from 8:15 to 16:00, and Fridays from 8:15 to 12:00. You can reach me at extension 6976.

Bird Surveillance Program

WEST NILE (WN) virus is a virus that has been found in more than 150 bird species in North America. Some species may have no obvious signs of illness when infected. Others, such as crows, blue jays, magpies and ravens, get sick more often and can die. The virus is spread by an infected mosquito.

Not all mosquitoes carry WN virus. WN virus is mostly found in those mosquitoes that typically feed on birds. It is estimated that fewer than 1% of mosquitoes in any given area are infected with WN virus. This means the risk of being bitten by an infected mosquito is low.

For those people who are at risk at being bitten by a mosquito, evidence has shown that many people infected with WN virus have mild symptoms, or no symptoms at all. People with weaker immune systems, including people over the age of 40 and people with chronic diseases such as diabetes, cancer or heart disease, are at greater risk for serious health effects. However, West Nile virus can cause severe illness in people of any age and any health status.

The best way to monitor for WN virus is by reporting and testing dead birds from the crow family (corvids) that are very susceptible to WN virus. Testing dead crows and other corvids gives an early indication of the number of infected birds in an area, and in turn, an indication of the presence of infected mosquitoes in that same area. When a dead bird is spotted on the base or around the home, the following action should be taken: If the bird is intact and looks like it has recently died, do not touch the bird. Take note where it is and re-bird or animal and discard it in the normal trash; and Immediately afterwards, wash your hands well with soap and water.

If a bird is found mangled or in poor condition on the base, call PMed or CE in order to have the bird removed.

Reducing The Mosquito Population

Everyone can play a part in reducing the mosquito port it to the Wing PMed Tech at 833-2500 Ext 6676 and Health Links at 788-8200 or 1-888-315-9257. Health Links will send someone out to gather the dead bird for testing. Health Links may also ask that the bird be covered with a cardboard box or similar to protect it against predators.

If the birds are found mangled or has started to decay, the bird cannot be tested for WN virus. Birds found in this condition near or around your home, the following action should be taken: Don't touch the dead bird or animal with your bare hands; take care not to scratch or puncture your skin while handling the bird or animal; use a shovel or a plastic bags to pick up the population just by regularly emptying any items in and around your yard that could collect standing water. Such items include pool covers; saucers under flower pots, children's toys, pet bowls and wading pools. Clean eavestroughs regularly so water does not collect; empty and clean bird baths once every week; ensure that openings in rain barrels are covered with mosquito screening or tightly sealed around the downspout; and ensure your yard is free of debris, such as old tires, that might hold rainwater.

CF-18 Hornet Crashes During Maple Flag Mission

by: Joy Smith
Courier Newspaper

CF-18 Hornet

The accident reached 4 Wing Commander, Col Bill Cleland, all fuel, oil and hydraulic fluids used in the aircraft were checked for contamination. A sample of oxygen used by pilots during flights was immediately sent to Edmonton for analysis. All flying was cancelled until Flight Safety was assured that no contamination had occurred. The weather did not seem to be a factor in the accident either. Weather reports from the nearest weather site to the CLAWR indicated that there was no cloud cover below Capt Naismith's position.

An investigation team from the Directorate of Flight Safety in Ottawa arrived the following day to begin collecting statements and evidence. It is expected that the team will release a preliminary statement within 2 or 3 days. A more in depth report may come in a couple of weeks. The final Flight Safety report stating the cause of the accident is probably several months away.

"The CF-18 has a tremendous safety record," stated Col Cleland. "The last fatality as a result of a CF-18 crash was eight years ago." According to Col Cleland, every aircraft undergoes a through daily inspection before participating in Exercise Maple Flag missions. Each aircraft maintained by 4 Wing Cold Lake is also given a routine inspection after 300 flying hours.

had just begun Phase Two of this year's Maple Flag when the accident happened. The mission in which the crash occurred was only the second launch of the second period.

Maple Flag organizers

Capt Kevin Naismith

At approximately 2:20 p.m. May 26, a CF-18 Hornet from 416 Tactical Fighter Squadron at 4 Wing Cold Lake crashed during an Exercise Maple Flag mission: the pilot died as a result of the accident. The accident occurred approximately 50 km north of 4 Wing on the Cold Lake Air Weapons Range (CLAWR).

Deceased is Capt Kevin Naismith, age 38. Capt Naismith has proudly served his country since 1991. He was an accomplished fighter pilot with more than 2000 flying hours to his credit. Capt Naismith is survived by his wife and three children.

The cause of the accident is unknown at this time. A Griffon helicopter from 417 Squadron was dispatched immediately and arrived at the crash scene about 30 minutes later. A member of the 4 Wing Search and Rescue team was lowered into the area and pronounced the pilot dead at the scene. Captain Naismith was found, in his parachute, approximately 200 meters from the downed CF-18. A small fire started as a result of the crash but was quickly contained by military personnel and Alberta Forestry fire fighters.

There was no indication from the pilot that there was a problem before the aircraft went down. The first sign of trouble came when the pilot of the CF-18 accompanying Capt Naismith radioed in to say that Naismith's plane had gone down and he did not see a parachute. The other pilot circled the crash site until the rescue crews arrived. According to instrumentation from the Air Weapons Range and the Airborne Warning and Control System(AWACS) aircraft, Capt Naismith's CF-18 was flying at 3000 feet Above Ground Level (AGL) at the time of ejection.

Upon reaching the crash site, Flight Safety Officer, Maj Jeff Jacques, quarantined the area and began the process of preserving evidence. As soon as word of Capt Pat Pelletier, Acting Flight Safety Officer; Col Bill Cleland, 4 Wing Commander and Maj John Argue, Squadron Operations Officer for 416 Sqn, address the media during a press conference just hours after a CF-18 Hornet crashed while taking part in an Exercise Maple Flag mission.

Historical Conference comes to the Wing By Jen Sharpe

Aviation enthusiasts of all kinds will be flying sky high next week as the 9th Annual Air Force Historical Conference lands at 17 Wing June 10-13. With a full and comprehensive presentation schedule, the conference will be sure to inform and provoke discussion on a variety of topics related to this year's theme—Canadian Military Aviation: The First 100 Years.

Twelve presenters, along with special presenters LGen Lloyd Campbell and Gen Ralph Eberhart, Commander in Chief of NORAD, will speak at the conference. LGen Campbell's discussion is particularly significant because this will be one of his last opportunities to speak as Lieutenant General before retirement this summer.

Although it is part of the continuing celebration of the centennial of flight, the Historical Conference will not only reflect on aviation's first 100 years but also discuss relevant contemporary military defence issues. Gen Eberhart's presentation, occurring Wednesday of the conference, discusses Norad post 9/11 and Northern Command. A special dinner will be held Wed. evening in Honor of LGen Lloyd Campbell.

The other presenters include past and present serving members who have researched papers on Air Force related topics. According to Air Force Museum Tour Guide Amanda Hogeveen Ungurian, speakers were picked according to their expertise and engaging presentations.

At last year's conference in Cornwall, Ont., an especially controversial debate ensued between two presenters on the topic of the heroism of Canadian WWI pilot Billy Bishop. While scholar Brereton Greenhous doubted the authenticity of Bishop's story, LCol David Bashow countered that the story would have been impossible to fabricate.

With such high profile presenters this year, Ungurian predicts the conference will provoke similar discussion. "The topics are very applicable today," Ungurian said. "It should be really interesting."

The Office of Heritage and History emphasizes the conference is open to anyone and can accommodate almost any schedule. "You can attend the entire conference or else only on a particular day or evening," Capt Ben Bond said. Both complete and daily conference passes can be purchased in advance the Office of Heritage and History (local 6532) or at the door June 10-13.

The Annual Air Force Historical Conference is a large event dedicated to the study and honour of Canadian military aviation history. In the past years, themes such as The Evolution of Air Power and Canada's Air Force from Peace to War have been discussed in cities across Canada.

"Next year it will be held in Ottawa on April 1 to celebrate the birth of the Royal Canadian Air Force," Capt Bond explained. "Will be the 80th Anniversary of the Birth of the RCAF"

Anyone interested in attending the conference should contact Capt Bond at the Office of Heritage and History. Guest accommodations are to be arranged through the Office of Heritage and History.

CASTORS DE LA 17<sup>e</sup> ESCADRE

RECHERCHE D'ANIMATEURS OU D'ANIMATRICES

7-8 ans

La première saison des Castors tire déjà à sa fin. L'année 2002-2003 a été couronnée de succès avec l'assermement de trois nouveaux Castors et deux animateurs. Malheureusement, un de ces derniers est muté cet été. Il faudra donc doter son poste en septembre prochain. Nous invitons donc tout adulte compétent et motivé à l'égard de l'orientation et du soutien des jeunes de 7 et 8 ans à prendre la relève à titre d'animateur ou d'animatrice pour la Colombie des Castors de la 17<sup>e</sup> Escadre.

Les personnes devront souscrire à la politique nationale de recrutement et d'adhésion des nouveaux membres adultes, déclinée par l'Association des Scouts du Canada (ASC). Il n'est pas nécessaire d'avoir fait partie du mouvement Scouts. Un programme de formation ASC est offert pour accroître l'efficacité et la motivation des adultes auxquels incombent des tâches de gestion et d'animation auprès des jeunes.

La Colombie se réunira une fois par semaine, durant une heure et demie, à compter d'octobre jusqu'en mai. La Colombie effectuera aussi des sorties et des camps. # This Month in Royal Canadian Air Force History

By Chris Charland, Associate Air Force Historian
1 Canadian Air Division

The Curtiss Kittyhawk like these three pictured from the R.C.A.F. No 111 "Thunderbird" (F) Squadron over the mountains in Alaska, provided valuable service in the air defence of both Canada's coasts.

No. 130 "Panther" (F) Squadron was formed on the 1st of May, 1942 at Mont Joli Quebec under the command of Squadron Leader A. J. Chevrier. The squadron first used the Curtiss Kittyhawk Mk. I in its air defence role on the East Coast, until replaced by the Canadian built Hawker Hurricane Mk. XII in September 1942.

No. 145 (B.R.) Squadron was formed at R.C.A.F. Station Torbay Newfoundland, on the 30th of May 1942 under the command of Squadron Leader R. H. Batty. The bomber reconnaissance unit initially flew the Lockheed Hudson Mk. I and II before re-equipping with the more capable Lockheed Ventura G.R. Mk. V general reconnaissance aircraft on antisubmarine duty with Eastern Air Command.

No. 160 "Sea Wolf" (T.B.) Squadron was formed on the 3rd of May 1943 at R.C.A.F. Station Sea Island British Columbia under the command of Squadron Leader J. T. Wilson. The squadron's first aircraft type was the Bristol Beaufort Mk. I which was used in the torpedo bomber role to counter the Japanese naval threat from the Aleutians.

No. 162 (B.R.) Squadron was formed at R.C.A.F. Station Yarmouth, Nova Scotia on the 19th of May to help stem the tide of rising German U-Boat activity on Canada's East Coast. Squadron Leader N. E.

Small assumed command on the same day. No. 160 (BR) Squadron flew the Canadian built Consolidated Canso A throughout its wartime activities. Incidentally, this is the same squadron that F/L David Hornell flew with. Hornell was subsequently awarded a posthumous Victoria Cross for heroic actions after he and his crew flying Canso s/n 9841, were shot down during an engagement with U-1225.

No. 406 "Lynx" (N.F.) Squadron was formed on the 10th of May 1941, at R.A.F. Station Acklington, Northumberland, England under the command of Wing Commander D. G. Norris (R.A.F.) D.F.C. The Lynx which were the R.C.A.F.'s fifth overseas and first night fighter unit, began their operational career with the venerable Bristol Blenheim Mk. I.

No. 407 "Demon" (C.S.) Squadron was formed on the 8th of May 1941 at R.A.F. Station Thorney Island, Hampshire, England under the command of Wing Commander H. M. Styles (R.A.F.) D.S.O. The Demons were initially equipped with the Lockheed Hudson Mk. IV and used them the coastal strike role.

No. 423 (G.R.) Squadron was formed at R.A.F. Station Oban, Argyll, Scotland on the 18th of May 1942. Wing Commander F. J. Rump (R.A.F.) assumed command the same day. The squadron was the last of six dedicated general reconnaissance units in the R.C.A.F. overseas. No. 423 flew the Short Sunderland Mk. III, providing convoy escort and anti-submarine patrols along the vast North Atlantic shipping routes.

Reformation

No. 415 "Swordfish" (M.P.) Squadron was reformed on the 1st of May 1961 at R.C.A.F. Station Summerside P.E.I. Wing Commander S. S. Mitchell was the squadron's first post-war commanding officer. This maritime patrol squadron was equipped with the Canadian designed and built Canadair CP-107 Argus.

First Blood

No. 416 'City of Oshawa' Fighter Squadron drew first blood on the 27th of May 1942. After being scrambled to investigate an unknown target, Flight Sergeant J. Moul, (flying a Supermarine Spitfire Mk. VB s/n BL887 from his base at Peterhead, Aberdeen, Scotland), sucsupport when they engaged U-630 with deadly results.

One Thousand Strong During the night of May 31/30 1942, No. 405 "Vancouver" (B) Squadron based at R.A.F. Station Pocklington, Yorkshire, England, made R.C.A.F. hiscessfully engaged a Luftwaffe Heinkel He.111 causing extensive damage.

Voyage To The Bottom Of The Sea

A Consolidated Canso A s/n 9747 of No. 5 (G.R.) Squadron, scored Eastern Air Command's fourth U-Boat victory in the deadly Battle of the Atlantic, on the 4th of May 1943. The aircraft flown by Squadron Leader B.H. Moffitt and crew, was performing close convoy tory by being the first all Canadian unit to fly a four engine heavy bomber into combat. The "Vancouver's" under the command of the legendary Wing Commander Johnny Fauquier D.F.C. and flying the Handley Page Halifax B Mk.II, dumped their deadly cargo onto the city of Cologne, Germany, during the first "thousand plane raid".

Soldiers and Local Police in Bosnia Soccer Battle

After a routine meeting between a Canadian patrol out of Bihac, and the Local Police of Velika Kladusa, a lighthearted banter broke out. A couple of jokes here, a jab about hockey, a retort about football, the first thoughts of a challenge were building. Of course, the Canadians wanted to play hockey, but due to a lack of proper ice, and besides the police were wise to the Canadians game. Therefore, a friendly game of football, or soccer to the Canadians, was a foot.

The field of battle was selected, a date was set, and the trash talking commenced. The Canadians even went out and found a field to get in a little practice. It became quickly apparent that they desperately needed the practice. The 10-12 year olds that came out to help the Canadians practice all agreed on one thing, that the Canadians would get their butts kicked. They came to this quick deduction after running circles around the practice squad.

The morning of 29 April, dawned bright and clear, anticipation was building in the soldiers all day. They spent the day preparing tensor wraps, bandages, and ice packs. Just in case, they would say.

Everyone was excited by the time the team stepped off the bus. After being serenaded by the British Para band, and quick opening ceremonies, the game got underway. At first, the Canadians excitement kept the ball deep in the policemen's end. As the game progressed the policemen's better ball control started to show. The first kink in the Canadian's armour came after their first line change. During a corner kick, the police took advantage of a shorter Canadian center, and scored on a header.

A few short minutes later, the police scored a second and third goal. It was not looking good for the Canadians. The British Para band that stuck around to watch the game attempted to raise the Canadian spirits with a few resounding cheers. It must have worked because the Canadians closed the gap before the end of the half.

In the second half, it remained a close game as the Canadian squad continued to press for a goal. There were narrow escapes, and great saves at both ends with shots going wide, or just over the bar. Loud cheers could be heard from the sideline every time "Red Sonja" touched the ball. "Red Sonja," a fan favourite, was the lone Canadian woman out on the pitch. Her aggressive play drew both a yellow card and a penalty shot late in the game. It was all in fun though as there was no real rough play. "Red Sonja" scoring on her penalty shot made it 4-2 for the police.

The final score ended 6-2 for the police as they took advantage of the Canadian defense moving up to assist their offense. However, in the end, the score did not really matter. What was important was that both sides had some fun, built a little camaraderie within their own organizations, and made some new friends in the opposing one.

At least the Canadians said the final score was not important. I am sure the VK police will take every opportunity to remind the Canadians of their score.

The game was played at the local soccer pitch in Velika Kladusa, Bosnia with the local police force winning the game by a score of six to two. The soldiers will spend the next six months maintaining a safe and secure environment in Bosnia on Operation Palladium, a NATO peace-support mission and Canada's contribution to peace in the Balkans.

However, that is OK, the offer for the hockey game is still out there.

Hollywood-calibre military neighbourhood a "fabulous community"

By Jen Sharpe

A scene from the movie set "More Than Meets the Eye," is shot at the Canadian Mennonite University in Winnipeg.

At first glance, the production of the made-for-TV movie More Than Meets the Eye: The Joan Brock Story is significant for only one reason: it stars actress Carey Lowell, Law & Order alum and wife of Richard Gere.

With the exception of that well-documented fact, More Than Meets the Eye should be no more newsworthy than any other movie that has filmed in Winnipeg over the past few months. After all, Winnipeg has a thriving film industry and hosts a variety of Hollywood-caliber pictures, does it not?

While it is true More Than Meets the Eye is written, shot, scouted, and managed like any other film, it is not true that the big story of its production revolves around Carey Lowell. In fact, not only does the film have more to do with the 17 Wing community than any other Winnipeg-based production, its completion is also testament to the professionalism and enthusiasm of a variety of Canadian Forces personnel and communities.

The connection between 17 Wing and More Than Meets the Eye can be found with Capt Christine Bannerman; a variety of important scenes were shot at the military home she shares with her husband and three children on Doncaster Street.

As the person in charge of securing locations for filming, Carmen Lethbridge has seen a lot of local neighbourhoods but was really impressed with the overall atmosphere of Doncaster and the Bannerman's home.

"My job is to find appropriate locations and manage everything about them," Lethbridge explained. "I take care of all the logistics and make sure the neighbours are aware that we're coming."

After "running around" searching for the perfect site to act as the title character's starter condo, Lethbridge said the Bannerman home appeared just at the right time. "It was big enough to shoot in and had a real clean, spartan look. There were no big trees; it was just what we were looking for."

After getting approval from the Bannermans as well as the Canadian Forces Housing Agency (CFHA), the neighbourhood was notified of the shoot and, to Lethbridge's relief, no complaints were made.

"It really is a fabulous community," she praised. "They are wonderful people and it was a pleasure to deal with them."

Executive Producer Paul Goff agreed with Lethbridge and also complimented the Bannermans, Doncaster Street, and Winnipeg in general. "There are reasons that we come to Canada, and the truth is that they're mostly the [Bannerman's] out of the condo, the neighbours have no problem with the fact that there will be lights on at night."

Both Goff and Lethbridge appreciated the genuine enthusiasm Doncaster Street showed towards the production, especially considering the disruption a movie shoot can create.

"I think that there's a buzz that comes to a city and especially a neighbourhood when a film crew comes in," Goff said. "People get very was a really enjoyable experience."

Would Lethbridge consider military housing as a location in the future? "For sure," she said, "but we would just need more lead time."

Because the shoot had to be okayed by the CFHA in Ottawa, future productions would ideally have more time for location issues than was available for More Than Meets the Eye. "We had a really tight time frame," Lethbridge concluded. "But Joan Brock (left), wrote a book about her life and is now the inspiration for the movie.

economic," he said. "I think Winnipeg has really become a spring board in the last couple of years, and we find that the crews are really great."

"We find that, especially in Winnipeg, everybody is so accommodating," Goff adds. "Even though we're moving excited and want to be part of it... They want to be in the know."

"A movie production is like a circus without rides," Lethbridge commented. "Even though it can be sometimes crazy and busy, everyone was really for it and it everything worked out well."

And would Capt Bannerman consider sacrificing her home to the forces of Hollywood again? "Yes, it's been a good experience," she said. "I would definitely do it again."

Capt Bannerman finds Hollywood at home

By Jen Sharpe

Capt Christine Bannerman's home will be featured in the made-for-TV movie "More Than Meets the Eye."

The tobacco-stained walls are dusty and dingy; the off-white baseboards and trim are soiled and sticky.

No, Capt. Christine Bannerman isn't a poor housekeeper, she's the proud occupant of Winnipeg's newest movie set, her military home on Doncaster Street.

"When I was at my house yesterday, there was about six painters there turning it into a dingy condo," Bannerman explained. "They were doing a couple of water treatments to make it look like somebody had been smoking in there for the past 50 years."

Bannerman's home—a normally crisp and clean two-story townhouse—will be one of many Winnipeg locations featured in the made-for-TV movie More Than Meets the Eye: The Joan Brock Story, starring Carey Lowell. In the picture, Winnipeg doubles for both North Dakota and Iowa, two places the real Joan Brock lived during her time as a teacher for the blind. The film recounts Brock's experiences as a teacher who suddenly goes blind herself and later loses her husband to cancer.

More Than Meets the Eye is Bannerman's first foray into the movie-making industry, and she said it came about rather unexpectedly. "This lady came, with her credentials and a letter, and said 'We like the location of your house and the neighbourhood,'" Bannerman said. "She just took a bunch of pictures and showed them to the producer and director, and got started on the paperwork."

Once the CF Housing Agency approved the use of her home for the shoot, Bannerman's home was swarmed with movie industry production people. "I must have had about 20 people in my house—the set guys, the guy who does the lighting. They were cruising all around, up and down, checking things out," Bannerman recalled. "We were totally surprised by it."

Although watching her home being completely transformed and immortalized on screen is an unforgettable experience, Bannerman admitted her three children were more excited about another aspect of the Hollywood lifestyle. "Their big thing is not so much the movie but the fact that they're staying at a hotel that has a pool with a slide," she laughed.

Not only are the Bannermans being put up in a hotel for the duration of the shoot, they are also receiving compensation for the use of their home. Although the neighbourhood is overrun with movie trucks, trailers, and production people, neidoor neighbour Melanie Meade says the experience hasn't disrupted her daily schedule.

"The producers have been really good about putting notices everywhere and letting people know what's going on," Meade said. "It's really neat to see (a movie shoot), and look at what the movie industry does for Winnipeg in terms of jobs and revenue."

Bannerman plans to thank her neighbours for all their patience and cooperation. "My husband and I are actually thinking about throwing a BBQ for the neighbourhood. Our two next-door neighbours have been really good."

The airdate for More Than Meets the Eye is yet to be announced. The movie will air in the US on Lifetime, and will possibly be picked up by a Canadian network at a later date.

Winnipeg Air Show Ready to Take Off

By Jen Sharpe

Ever wonder what it would be like to see the Winnipeg International Air Show from the air instead of the tarmac? Thanks to Canadian Centennial of Flight celebration, you could have the best view in the house with a tethered hot air balloon ride.

In recognition of the 100th anniversary of heavier-than-air powered flight, the Canadian Centennial of Flight will feature at the Air

Show the national launch of the Altitude is Everything hot air balloon. "Winnipeg is the first place it will be launched," Office of Air Force Heritage and History Assistant Melanie Sourisseau said. "After this the balloon will travel the country, visiting many other air shows and towns across Canada as part of the Canadian celebration of flight."

Following its appearance in Winnipeg June 8 and 9, the balloon team will travel to Beausejour, Altona, Gimli, and Morden before heading to Ontario June 15. It winds up its cross-Canada tour September 12 in Newfoundland.

Sourisseau said the balloon rides will give everyone the chance to appreciate the advancements made in aviation over the past 100 years. "We hope to raise awareness of today's youth and generate interest in the Canadian celebration of the centennial of flight,"

she said. "[The balloon] will give children the opportunity to experience the exhilaration of flight."

The Canadian Centennial of Flight will offer tethered rides on the hot air balloon from 9 a.m. to noon on both days of the Air Show—June 8 and 9. For safety reasons, the balloon must be deflated before the demonstration portion of the air show program begins at 1 p.m.

Canada's Snowbirds, a perennial favourite at the Winnipeg International Air Show, are also doing their part in helping Canada celebrate. "They have just begun their 100 Towns for 100 Years tour. For this, they have expanded their usual route and will fly past many towns in Canada and a few in the States. This will also give many smaller communities that may not necessarily have their own air show the chance to catch a glimpse of them."

Along with the balloon, visitors can expect to find patches, pins, toys, and commemorative posters at the Centennial of Flight booth. "Those items can be purchased with a donation," Sourisseau explained. All donations will go to the Air Force Heritage Fund. Another item available at Centennial of Flight booth will be an activity book for young Canadians.

All displays at the Centennial of Flight booth are made possible by the team at Altitude is Everything and the Office of Air Force Heritage and History. Passes to the Air Show can be purchased in advance at Safeway ($12.00) or at the gate for $15.00.

What can a Financial Counsellor do for me?

by: Hal Oare, Financial Counsellor, SISIP Financial Services, Halifax, NS

At some time in their career, CF personnel may have a reason to use the services of a Financial Counsellor. This may be due to the need for professional assistance with debt restructuring and credit counselling, or for the creation of a financial "snapshot". Such a snapshot, or budget as it is normally called, allows both the Counsellor and the client to determine best where the member stands financially and if some type of corrective action should be taken.

SISIP Financial Counsellors are trained to provide assistance in numerous areas of money management. They also have access to many products and resources to assist a CF member and his/her family regain financial control. These include but are not limited to:

- Developing a budget;
- Renegotiating debts with creditors;
- Obtaining financial assistance through the Canadian Forces Personnel Assistance Fund (CFPAF); and
- Providing referrals to local community services and other military resources.

A Service Level Agreement between SISIP Financial Services and the individual

Base/Wing/Unit governs the actions of SISIP Financial Counsellors. This agreement provides serving military members and their families with free and confidential access to a Counsellor on a voluntary basis.

Appointments may be made directly by the individual and do not require the involvement of the member's unit.

In many instances, money problems could have been corrected before they became severe if the individual had sought professional help sooner. The longer you put off your problems, the larger they become. Counsellors have usually built up a good rapport with many creditors and financial institutions in their areas and can often use these relationships to assist in devising an equitable solution for debt repayment or restructuring.

There is no reason to fear repercussions from meeting with the Counsellor. Information obtained during the interview is treated in strict confidence.

Further information concerning the many counselling services available to serving military members and their spouses may be obtained online at www.sisip.com.

Athlete of the Month

Road or trail, Gerrard strives for personal best

Capt Dave Gerrard

Road or trail, Gerrard strives for personal best 17 Wing's Capt Dave Gerrard is a busy man. As a competitive cyclist on both road and trail, he bikes every Wednesday at Birds Hill Park and every second Sunday in races across the province. And the training is paying off: In 2000, Gerrard won the provincial road racing championship for the 30-39 age group and looks to place within the top 5 in the provincial point series this summer.

"The racing schedule is quite extensive," Gerrard says. "Other than racing, it's just about getting miles in for training."

"On weekends, Saturday mornings, we do rides between 70 and 100 kilometers. Those take about three hours to complete."

Gerrard trains with the Fast Old Guys, a group composed of cycling enthusiasts over the age of 30. The mostly civilian club contains one or two military members, excluding Capt Gerrard.

For Gerrard though, the sport isn't about competition but personal improvement and achievement. "I personally try to exceed what I've done before. I like seeing how I do against people who have beat me in the past."

Individual sports like cycling, cross-country skiing, running, and weight lifting appeal to Gerrard more because achievement depends on the athlete and nobody else. "Mountain bike racing has one single focus and that's what I tend to do best in," he says. "Going faster is everything; there's not much skill or complicated techniques involved."

Although Gerrard is being posted to Cold Lake this summer, he plans on continuing in the sport of cycling. "I just have to find a club and the races, but I'd like to keep up with it."

He is not, however, limiting himself to cycling alone. With a lifetime of physical activity and recreational cycling behind him, the run-bike-run setup of the duathlon is something Gerrard is interested in. "It'll depend on what kind of programs they have there," he says.

Capt Gerrard started biking seriously in the early to mid 90's and started racing in 1998. Due to his dedication, enthusiasm, and commitment to the sport, Capt Dave Gerrard is Voxair's June 2003 Athlete of the Month.

Pool Safety

In an effort to maintain excellent customer service, avoid confusion and misinformation, Community Recreation has published the following interim safety guidelines for the 17 Wing swimming pools.

These interim guidelines were set up in an effort to preserve a high standard of safety while ensuring that everyone's enjoyment of the aquatic facilities will not be affected. If you have any questions regarding these or any other aquatic issues, please call Dana Hinkema, Aquatic Supervisor at 833-2500

ext. 7013.

Pool

Children 7 & under must be within arm's reach of an adult at all times unless they are wearing a life-jacket or have completed 2-lengths of front crawl.

To swim alone in the deep end:

Children are required to complete 2-lengths of front crawl; or wear a lifejacket at all times; or be accompanied by an adult. Each adult is allowed to have two children with them in the deep end.

Children age 2 & under must wear swim-diapers at all times.

Hot Tub

An adult, or person over 14 years of age, is to accompany children under 12.

General behaviour expected in the hot tub:

Sitting quietly on the bench; no splashing, floating or swimming allowed. Children wearing swim diapers are NOT allowed into the hot tub, although they may sit along the edge with their feet in the water. (Swim diaper material tends to burst in the warm water.)

Toys and lifejackets are NOT allowed into the hot tub due to chlorine.

We are committed to providing customer service excellence. Please speak with one of our Lifeguards or call Dana Hinkema, Aquatic Supervisor, with your concerns.

TAROSCOPES

By Nancy

ARIES (March 21 - April 19): What was started months ago is coming to fruition or culmination. Developing a new focus for the future, then it's full steam ahead. When you believe anything is possible, it is, though how it manifests may be a surprise. Amazing discoveries about limiting assumptions surface.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20): Failing at what appears easy is a message for you to pursue something more risky but more fulfilling. Even if you take the easy route, it's no guarantee. Compromise can become an eroding force. Move through your fears, you'll gain greater rewards.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 21): Rise above limitations and situations by becoming a master of your own fate. You're blending skills you've perfected, and knowledge, then putting it all to good use. Own your own abilities. Development continues.

CANCER (June 22 - July 22): Your value increases. Your investments start to pay off whether you've put in time, effort, or cash. Enjoy fewer struggles and more fun. Plan new experiences and outings for yourself. Take charge of your home and health.

LEO (July 23 - August 22): You've turned a corner and can now see what great things the future could hold. Play a stronger role at this stage so things go your way. Focus on success. What you put in, you see returned. Embrace optimism, it impacts greatly on long-term developments.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22): Small worries can wear away your energy. Deal with your doubts instead of repressing them. Schedule lots of time between appointments. Watch for clues to upcoming changes and remain flexible so you can ride the wave of change. What appears stable, isn't.

For appointments call 775-8368

LIBRA (September 23 - October 23): Fairness is fine but you can't please all the people all the time. You're expected to take action when you observe a lack of responsibility or productivity. Excuses are only good for so long. Some problems can't be fixed if people won't change.

SCORPIO (October 24 - November 21): Give 100% when a golden opportunity presents itself. You make a favorable impression when you show you're a thoughtful, balanced, innovator. Greater results are realized when you promote flexibility. Entertain options to merge your ideas with others.

SAGITARIUS (November 22 - December 21): To err is human. Let yourself and others off the hook sometimes. Are you letting other people's judgements influence your decisions? You have a right to your own reality. Second-guessing every decision you make is too time-consuming.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19): Though it is hard to move beyond hurts, the time has come to open up to new beginnings and to reintroducing your ideas. Refrain from exchanging cruelties with petty people. This won't serve your purpose. Reserve judgement. Let your work speak for itself.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18): Having high ideals is important n not too high though. Pay bills first. Gossip can be hypnotizing if it's repeated often enough and it may influence your perceptions. Use your own awareness to judge a situation, not another's interpretation. Ground yourself with your work.

PISCES (February 19 - March 20): You may be tempted to hang onto anger but even if it's justified it's pulling you down. Forgiving is not forgetting. Advocate for yourself to see an improvement in your earning power or work relations. Doing what you do best is rewarding. Seek to understand yourself better.
